DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sato et al.

(PN 3,603,848, of record).

Sato et al. discloses, as shown in Figures 1-8, a semiconductor device including n-channel field-effect transistors (33) and p-channel field-effect transistors (32) formed on a semiconductor substrate, wherein:

the transistors are disposed with a gate electrode (26,27) and a source and drain (15,16,22,23) corresponding thereto;

a direction joining the source and the drain is formed in a direction along a <100> crystal axis or an axis equivalent to the <100> crystal axis.

Note that it is inherent that when the p-channel having the direction joining the source and the drain being formed along the <100> crystal axis, the compression strain is formed in which crystal strain of the p channel field-effect transistors would be greater than crystal strain of channel portions of the n-channel field-effect transistors. Likewise, it is inherent that when the n-channel having the direction joining the source and the drain being formed along the <100> crystal axis, the tensile strain is formed in which crystal strain of the n channel field-effect transistors would be greater than crystal strain of channel portions of the p-channel field-effect transistors.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 3-9 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 08/03/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

It is argued, at pages 8-9 of the Remarks, that when the direction of the channels for the p-channel and n-channel devices are the same, the strains for these two channels will be substantially the same. The examiner agreed. However, Sato et al. discloses, as shown in Figures 4 and 6, the direction of the channels for the p-channel and n-channel devices are different, therefore, the strains for these two channels will be substantially different.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 2811
